CPE reporting reminder for IAP and CIA members

A friendly reminder that the deadline for reporting CPE for the Internal Audit Practitioner (IAP) and Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) designations is 31 December.

The Global IIA refers to this process as Certification Renewal, not to be confused with our membership renewal in March.

Members are urged not to wait until the last minute before attesting to their CPE. Once you have completed all your CPE, you can renew your Certification using CCMS once the reporting period opens on 1st October. You will have until midnight on 31st December to do so.

If your certification has been revoked, or you are currently in grace period, then you will find more information about your next steps on the IIA's website.

Members holding designations issued by the Chartered IIA, including FIA, CMIIA or CFIIA, and legacy designations like PIIA will attest to completing CPE as part of the membership renewals process in March 2027.

Keeping your CPE up to date is a valuable way to demonstrate your ongoing commitment to professional development, ethical practice and maintaining the knowledge and skills needed in a changing internal audit environment.

If you still need to complete some CPE hours before the deadline, there are plenty of accessible ways to do this. The Chartered IIA offers an extensive range of training courses on a wide range of topics.

Alternatively, if you missed our Internal Audit Conference you can catch up on demand and earn up to 28 CPE points.

We also have a range of free or low-priced options you can consider:

- Learn at your own pace by enrolling on an On-demand training course
- Access any of the recorded webinars on our website
- Reading professional guidance, thought leadership, articles or technical reports
- Access any of the free resources available on The IIA website.

You can also get involved in our regional member networks, communities, forums and special interest groups and support your professional development, while also supporting the profession and your fellow members.
